The Community Marketing Commission had a very busy and productive year. The CMC hired ToolBox Creative and Corona Research to conduct extensive community outreach and complete a Brand Assessment. The question to be answered was does Loveland already have a brand or does it need to develop one. The answer was yes and no. The City has many strong themes including: The Arts specifically Sculpture, the Sweetheart City, Recreation/ Sports, Gateway to Rocky Mountain National Park, and Events and Conventions. Innovation was also a growing theme due to the future development of the Rocky Mountain Center for Innovation and Technology at the former Agilent Campus.

In addition, the consultants completed an Activation Plan which is a strategy to develop more destination events in Loveland. The Destination Loveland Plan was also produced and it will be used as guiding document for the use of the lodging tax funds until 2017. The Destination Loveland plan was adopted by Council in November of 2011. In December 2011, the CMC voted to no longer hold a grants process for funding community and destination events. The CMC will partner with the Office for Creative Sector Development and Engaging Loveland to host 4 community events: BBQ, Blues and Brews, Art in the Air Balloon Festival, the Artist Studio Tours and the Corn Roast Festival. The OCSD will create one new destination event called: "Fall in Loveland" to be held in October. The "Fall In Love" Festival is being developed for the month of February 2013.

2012 promises to be just as busy and even more exciting. January was spent selecting and hiring a visitor services coordinator to implement the Destination Loveland Plan and serve as staff support for the CMC. The City took over operations of the Visitor Center in December 2011, and the commission will be discussing the future of the center at their April meeting. The commission will also be developing a long range plan for spending the CMC dollars for the development of destination attractions and a City wide way finding signage program. A Destination Loveland website to assist visitors seeking Loveland information will be developed and launched in 2012 as well.
