Workshop: Waters of the United States

Injunction Granted in Twelve States, What's Next?

Join us on Tuesday, September 22 from 12:00pm-1:00pm for a short workshop or webinar, your choice, to learn from Paul M. Seby, a partner at Holland & Hart and a Special Assistant Attorney General to the State of North Dakota, lead a twelve state legal challenge to the EPA and Army Corps of Engineers "Waters of the U.S. Rule". North Dakota et v EPA et al ( US DC ND 3:15-CV-00059-RRE).

Paul successfully argued and obtained a preliminary injunction against implementation of the WOTUS Rule in twelve states, which include Colorado. The District of North Dakota is the only Court in the U.S. thus far to have enjoined the Rule and there are significant other legal actions going on around the country, involving other federal District Courts, several Courts of Appeal, and the U.S. Judicial Panel on Multi District Litigation.

Paul's presentation will talk about the WOTUS Rule, the Preliminary Injunction decision, and several other legal proceedings that will likely contribute to the fate of the WOTUS Rule being decided by the Supreme Court. Tune in next Tuesday to find out the details!

Information about the Webinar Speaker

As a leading practitioner in the Rocky Mountain region, Mr. Seby counsels public and private clients on how to navigate and successfully operate within the complex framework of state and federal environmental regulations and policies. Clients in the energy, mining, manufacturing, and service industries rely on Mr. Seby's comprehensive understanding of government programs and how agencies function to efficiently and effectively achieve their business objectives. In 2014, Mr. Seby was recognized by Law Week Colorado as "Barrister's Best" for environmental law, a "Lawyer of the Year" by Colorado Lawyer, and included on the Denver Business Journal's Who's Who in Energy list.

Clients seek Mr. Seby's strategic guidance in federal and state rulemaking and policy development of air and water quality, recycling and waste disposal, and surface and ground water matters. Drawing on nearly 25 years' experience analyzing a myriad of environmental regulations, Mr. Seby anticipates how clients will be impacted and he creates strategies to advance their operational and long-term business positions. He has also assisted in drafting and testified on several amendments to the waste management, recycling, and air and water quality laws of Colorado and neighboring states.

When agencies act outside or beyond their authority, Mr. Seby has extensive experience prosecuting cases to enforce and overturn administrative agency regulations and decisions. Mr. Seby has also defended clients in federal and state enforcement proceedings, in appearances before the Supreme Court of the United States, several U.S. Courts of Appeal, the Colorado Supreme Court, and many other lower courts. Understanding a successful outcome often requires more than a traditional legal approach, Mr. Seby leverages his experience to negotiate with government agencies and adversary groups.

In lending transactions, mergers and acquisitions, and other business arrangements, Mr. Seby works with transactional teams to identify existing and potential environmental pitfalls and he guides clients to develop practical, workable solutions that overcome legal and business challenges.
