

LOVELAND

PLANNING AN EVENT?

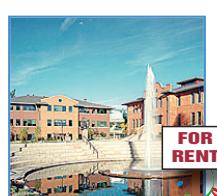

A variety of meeting and public use spaces are available throughout City-owned facilities for the convenience and benefit of the entire community. Rooms for meetings, conferences and special events such as weddings or private parties, are available and can be reserved through their respective City departments. Room sizes vary widely from small meeting rooms, spaces that accommodate 80 to 100 and indoor and outdoor venues for 300 to 450. Fees vary as well, most ranging from $30 to $75. Deposit, set-up and tear-down and cancellation fees vary by venue.

Code concerns bloom in spring

Life in Loveland kicks into a different gear when springtime blossoms. It's time for walking the dog, holding a garage sale and launching those do-it-yourself projects to improve everything from the back porch to that old Porsche.

It's also a time when the telephones on desks of City officials begin to ring with questions about City Code violations and enforcement.

What do you know about walking the dog or building a deck in Loveland? Planning a garage sale? Hoping to surprise the kids with a backyard playground? Test your knowledge of common City Code questions and violations by taking the quiz below.

A building permit is needed for a fence that is 6-foot, 3-inches or less.

False

It's OK to work on my '57 Chevy (or '98 Caddy or '05 Toyota) in my driveway if I keep it covered when I'm not working on it.

True

You can build a storage shed (no greater than 200 square feet) but not a deck without a building permit.

True

Piles of scrap lumber may be stored indefinitely in a backyard.

False

Replacing some shingles or gutters (normal maintenance) requires a building permit.

False

Building a backyard playground requires a building permit.

False

Unleashed dogs are prohibited on any public property including parks and the bike trail.

True

Hanging sheet rock on walls requires a building permit.

True

Walls can be opened for plumbing or electrical inspections if the building permit process was not followed properly.

True

Owning a dangerous animal is prohibited in Loveland.

True

The City allows storage of trailers in yards and driveways, although homeowners' associations may not.

True

A one-day garage sale sign on the owner's property is OK.

True

Weeds, or even a bluegrass lawn, cannot be allowed to grow taller than 8 inches.

False

It's OK to run any type of business, including an auto repair shop, from my garage at home.

False

A one-day garage sale sign (or private sign of any kind) on the corner or a telephone pole is OK.

False

A car or trailer without plates is OK parked on the street for a day or two.

False

Dog or cat waste must be removed on public property.

True

Who you gonna call?

If there's something wrong in the neighborhood you think reflects a violation of Loveland's City Code, who do you contact?

The answer to that question can be complicated. Generally speaking, if the concern relates to:

- Private property, call the City Code office, 962-2506
- Public property, call the Loveland Police, 667-2151
- Animals, call the Humane Society, 226-3647.
